

Soldier Hollow Summer Biathlon a Success

BY COURTNEY GRESSMEN

Soldier Hollow of Wasatch Mountain State Park played host to another exciting Olympic event this past weekend.

The summer biathlon, which is a practice for most elite athletes, included 27 novice athletes from around the Nation.

The novice athletes got the chance to run on some of the exact courses the Olympians use during their events, plus they got to shoot the same .22 caliber rifles the athletes use. The elite athletes had to shoot in the prone and standing positions, while the novice shot twice in the prone position.

The elite group of men went out in two heats and the elite women all started together. The elite group consisted of Olympians who have been training since the season ended and will be back at Soldier Hollow in January and February for Worlds.

Lawton Redman of Florence, VT. won the elite men's division. For the elite women, Debbie Schutlz of Sun Valley, Idaho won the event.

To many of the novice racers, it didn't matter if they placed, it was just a chance for them to race on an Olympic course and participate in an exciting event that was held in their own back yard.

Steve Young Retires and Joins Salt Lake Olympics

SALT LAKE CITY- Playing in the NFL will be a hard act to follow but Steve Young is taking his passion for sport to the Olympic Winter Games of 2002.

His latest assignment as SLOC Ambassador-at-Large is to be one of the hosts at the Olympic Medals Plaza. From February 8th to February 24th, the plaza will be a nightly gathering place for celebrating Olympic athletes. From the plaza, the world will turn to see 477 medals awarded, concerts, and fireworks. Attendance will be approximately 30,000 with a world wide television audience of millions.

"I watched Steve's announcement with decidedly mixed emotions. His spirit has lifted the entire NFL and it's fans. While he will be greatly missed in the football arena, the Salt Lake Olympics welcomes him as an Ambassador-at-Large," said Mitt Romney, President and CEO of SLOC. "Steve's brand of leadership, integrity, and enthusiasm for sport will be an integral part of the success of these games. he will motivate all of us with his enormous vitality for America's team."

As Ambassador-at-Large, Steve Young's role with SLOC will include the following:

1. Volunteer Chairperson for the Olympic Medals Plaza:

- * Host for the nightly celebration at the Plaza in downtown Salt Lake City.

- * Community liaison for public awareness, education, and involvement.

- * Assisting in protocol with visiting national Olympic Committees and International Federations of sport.

2. Salt Lake 2002 Ambassador:

- * Assist SLOC President and CEO Mitt Romney in the identification and solicitation of funds and resources, from individuals and corporations, to support the 2002 Olympic Winter Games and America's Olympic Athletes.

3. Team 2002 Volunteer Chairperson:

- * Assist SLOC in recruiting the 26,000 person volunteers needed for the 2002 Olympic Winter Games and Paralympic Winter Games.

- * Work closely with SLOC in all facets of the Team 2002 program including volunteer recognition, retention, training, communications, and recruitment.
